1. Some weeks ago Mr. Scott, of the staff of the Senate Appropriations Committee, handed me extracts of a letter to Sen. Bridges which the Senator had asked him to look into. The unknown author of the letter was critical about the expenditure of CIA money by [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] The gist of the criticism is that [REDACTED]

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED] The document also referred to a publication of [REDACTED] in rather uncomplimentary terms. The preparation of a reply to this document was turned over to Mr. [REDACTED]

Upon his return from his trip abroad with Sen. Bridges, I handed Mr. Scott the reply of Mr. [REDACTED]. Sen. Bridges then was reported to me by Mr. King of his staff to be quite angry that CIA had not furnished the reply rather than [REDACTED] but it is believed that this problem is being straightened out by Mr. King of the Senator's staff. In any event, Mr. King has asked for six different issues of [REDACTED] on behalf of the Senator, and the IO Division is forwarding them to Legislative Counsel for transmittal.
